Our flexible approach to learning means you can still apply for a course that interests you even if you do not meet the specific criteria. If you don't have all the qualifications required or have a degree in an unrelated area, then please contact us. We may consider knowledge and skills gained through previous training along with your work experience as counting towards your academic potential. Please note that this is not an option for some of our professional courses where all elements of the entry requirements must be fully met.

For more information about being accepted on to one of our courses, visit:

leedsbeckett.ac.uk/postgraduate/entry-routes

DBS CHECKS

Enhanced checks by the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) are required for entry on to some of our courses, which will identify criminal convictions. Criminal convictions are not always a barrier to entry but must be taken into account. DBS checks are undertaken through our University, and must be completed before starting your course.

International applicants, those without British citizenship, and British citizens with a significant period of overseas residency also require a criminal records check or certificate of conduct from their home country, or countries in which they have lived, prior to entry on to the course, in addition to the DBS check.

Full details on how to apply, our deadlines and what happens next can be found online at: leedsbeckett.ac.uk/postgraduate/apply

“Leeds Beckett was a no-brainer – I love the city, and the facilities were so much better than anywhere else I’d seen. The placements were second to none – my first was with Leeds United FC, and without that opportunity I wouldn’t have secured my first job. I couldn’t have done this role without the confidence and expertise from my studies.”
