OPEN DAY GUIDE

FRIDAY 30 JUNE 2023, 09:00 - 15:00
LEEDSBECKETT.AC.UK/OPENDAYS
DEFINING MOMENTS

Student life at Leeds Beckett is a journey. Bursting with defining moments at every step. And each day we’ll support you to move forward – together we’ll get you closer to the future you want.

Reach out and take advantage of the opportunities we provide. Placements, inspiring teaching teams, friendships and teamwork. We’ve got partners and connections in a booming city that welcomes students with open arms.

The more you put in, the greater your future advantage will be. We’ll back you all the way.
PLAN YOUR OPEN DAY

Be prepared
Thank you for booking a place on our Open Day here at Leeds Beckett University — it’s the perfect way to get a feel for life at the university and to find out more about a course that interests you. You might want to attend a subject talk, chat to course tutors and visit our accommodation. This guide lists what’s on and when, so you can really plan your day and make the most of your time with us.

We recommend you arrive at least 30 minutes before your first talk or activity to give yourself enough time to sign in at one of our registration points.

Check which campus to attend
Our Open Day takes place across both our City Campus and our Headingley Campus. Which campus you need to visit will be determined by the course you are interested in.

Make sure you visit the right campus by checking the location of your subject talk on pages 22-51. You can find travel information and directions on page 58.

Register on arrival (09:00 onwards)
First things first, check in at one of our registration points as soon as you arrive. These are located in all of the main buildings at both our City and Headingley Campuses and marked on the campus maps on pages 54-57 of this guide.

Welcome talks (09:20 onwards)
From the facilities that make the university such a fantastic place to learn, to the close relationships you will build with our academics to ensure you get the most from your course, these talks will offer a short overview of life at Leeds Beckett and the exciting opportunities we provide our students.

We will talk you through our longstanding academic excellence and how we will support you to achieve your career goals.

Samuel Pearson,
BA (Hons) Filmmaking,
Third year student
Throughout his course Sam has been wowed by the top-spec facilities, daily support, and industry opportunities he has been given.

To bolster his filmmaking portfolio, Sam submitted a proposal to our university marketing team to create a TV advertisement for our sport facilities. His advertisement can now be seen across multiple digital channels. Describing this as a big moment and exciting challenge, Sam says he feels privileged to be a part of the Leeds Beckett community.

“When I got here, I was blown away by the facilities. The studios are massive and there’s extensive industry standard kit available for students to use – we’re very privileged to have what we do here. It’s been pivotal for me and turned me into the filmmaker that I am today.”

At Leeds Beckett, we have everything you need to make sure that your time in halls is a time like no other. We asked our Residence Life Officer, Savanna Thompson, to share her highlights and tips for settling into halls.

How to design your own flat
“Your new flatmates will be your first real friends at uni, so to help you find the perfect fit, at Leeds Beckett we let you choose your own flatmates. Yes, really. You can match yourself with others who have similar interests and contact them in advance. So you know there’s a friendly face waiting for you when you arrive to enjoy Freshers with.”

About the non-stop action
“I’m part of a team whose job is to help you have a great time. We listen to students and provide a programme of activities and events that you’ll love, including in-person and virtual events, low-key socials, group trips, and can’t-miss nights like gigs and outdoor cinema. There’s even free pizza! Events run through the full tenancy periods, even during holidays.”

We guarantee accommodation to all first-year students who make us their first choice and submit an online accommodation application before 30 June 2024.

Getting support
“In halls you’ll have access to 24/7 support during term time. We’re a small, friendly team, here to provide help and support on a wide range of issues, including security, finance, wellbeing support and much more. There’s 1-2-1 help by phone or email, onsite reception and security staff who you can contact any time day or night. We’re your family away from home.”

These are just some of the ways that the Leeds Beckett team go above and beyond to make your time in halls the time of your life. So get involved on day one, keep an open mind and promise yourself you’ll try any activity once. You’ll thank us later.

Trying something new... the surfing society

Feeling at home in a new city

Anca Verde, BA (Hons) Media Communication Cultures, Second year student

From the very first moment Anca visited Leeds she felt at home. And now she’s getting excited by the graduate jobs the city has to offer. From visiting ITV studios to trying new extra-curricular activities including surfing, her student experience has been packed with possibilities and adventure.

She describes her best moment as being involved in LEEDS2023 – a campaign to celebrate culture in our city. The opportunity came through the Leeds Beckett Volunteering Society and, as a face of the campaign, Anca’s photo can be seen on billboards and advertising across the city.

“When I arrived in Leeds for the first time, I felt like it was already home. Everyone was so welcoming and friendly. As an international student, being in new country, it’s really important to have someone you can turn to and at Leeds Beckett I’ve met a lot of people who are that for me.”

SUBJECT TALKS

We work with 5000 plus external partners, from local businesses to global organisations. They help us to shape courses that prepare students for the workplace. Engaging projects, case studies, guest speakers, networking events and internships are just a few of the opportunities we provide.

We’re always looking to improve your student experience on campus. Recent investments include £80m on a new Leeds School of Arts building and £45m on a new state-of-the-art Sports building, both opened in 2021. We’ve also been working on a new multimillion development on the Leeds Law School.

You can attend as many subject talks as you like to find out more about courses you are interested in.

You will hear about:
- The course structure and content, providing a flavour of the modules and options available.
- Course entry requirements.
- Learning outcomes and graduate attributes.
- Course facilities.
- Teaching methods, course support and contact time.

Details of individual subject talks, including times and locations, can be found in the following section.

Subject information stands
After your subject talk, if you still have questions or would like to discuss anything further, please visit one of our subject information stands, where you can speak to academic staff and current students.

Details of their locations can be found on the following pages.

Because you want to learn from the experts

Can the law stop illegal fishing?

Illegal fishing is widespread – the most obvious effect is that fish stocks are reduced, sometimes threatening entire species. Another issue is boats discarding their fishing nets and equipment – these can be deadly to marine life for decades.

Dr Mercedes Rosello studies legal frameworks, looking for new ways to prevent illegal fishing and improve the governance of the oceans. Her published work informs the latest thinking in this area, leading the way for students to explore new ways to protect the natural world.

“Research indicates there is a connection between illegal fishing and poor governance, and at times illegal fishing is linked to corruption. A lack of transparency in how governments regulate fishing activities or deal with suspected or confirmed illegality perpetuates the problem.”

Dr Mercedes Rosello,
Senior Lecturer

As well as a place for learning, universities are a centre for some of the world’s top thinkers. Our academics ask (and answer) the big questions. They bring their expertise into the classroom, helping transform the way our students view the world.

What’s the true cause of violent conflicts? How can we change our behaviour to save the planet? Or tackle health inequalities across the population?

“Diversity is woven throughout our courses. Whatever area we’re looking at, we try to make it inclusive and identify areas of difference.”

Maryam Riaz, lecturer in counselling and mental health, remembers being the only person of colour as a trainee counsellor. Now, in her role at Leeds Beckett University, a key area of her work is to encourage people from all backgrounds to consider the profession.

One of Maryam’s top priorities is to empower students to be mindful of people’s differences and demonstrate cultural sensitivity. But Maryam knows you can’t bring meaningful change with a single module on diversity and inclusion.

“I found that greed is not the reason for conflict. The real reasons are linked to human security and sustainability. Before oil exploration, the predominant occupation of the region was farming and fishing, but now the water is polluted and oil spills ruin the farmland. The conflict between pastoralists and farmers, caused by climate change, is one of the biggest conflicts in parts of Africa, claiming more lives than terrorism.”

Focusing on the Niger Delta region in Nigeria, one of the largest oil gas deposits in the world, Dr Olayinka Ajala has explored how the distribution of resources has contributed to spiralling violence and deaths in Nigeria. During a six-month study in 2018 by the International Crisis Group, 1,300 people were killed in violence between Nigerian herders and farmers. Through research, Olayinka helps students consider the root causes of such conflicts.
