Course Overview

Aims

The aims of the programme are to:

Engage students in pursuing and acquiring a comprehensive knowledge and dynamic understanding of the law and criminology. The curriculum and structure of the course has been designed to develop, academic, practical, digital and employability skills. Students will participate in a range of learning activities and authentic assessment tasks over the course of their studies and at each stage they will be supported to become independent learners in the two complimentary disciplines of law and criminology. As a result, students who successfully complete the LLB (Hons) Law with Criminology have a range of skills and attributes on graduation that are attractive to both legal and non-legal employers.

The LLB (Hons) Law with Criminology is delivered by teaching teams across both the Law School and the School of Social Sciences and provides students with the opportunity to select a portfolio of modules that aligns with their career aspirations and interests as they grow and take shape.

During the first year of the Course students study the compulsory modules of Public Law, Contract Law, and Criminal Law, as well as English Legal System, and Legal and Employability Skills. Criminology is blended into this law course by studying four compulsory criminology modules, two in second year and two in third year. There is also the option to study a criminology elective during third year.

Building on the core legal knowledge studied in the first year, during the second and third years of the Course students can choose some of their modules of study. For example, those students who wish to enter the legal profession would be advised to study Property Law and Tort Law in the second year, and Equity and Trusts, and European Law and Retained EU Law in the third year, as well as other modules of interest. Students would then be in a position to move to the next stage of the qualification process for solicitors (the Solicitors Qualifying Examination <https://www.sra.org.uk/become-solicitor/sqe/>), for barristers (the vocational component of Bar training <https://www.barstandardsboard.org.uk/training-qualification/becoming-a-barrister/vocational-component.html>) and for the Chartered Institute of Legal Executives (CILEx) https://www.cilex.org.uk/cilex\_lawyer/about\_cpq/cpq\_advanced.

It is recognised that not all students wish to progress to a professional legal qualification and the LLB (Hons) Law with Criminology gives those students the flexibility to study the blend of modules that interests them and/or is more relevant for their graduate future. For instance, a student who is not interested in qualifying as a solicitor or barrister can choose not to study Property Law in the second year and study Legal Tech or Medical Law instead, they could choose not to study Equity and Trusts in the third year and study Child Law and UK Anti-Terrorism Law & Policy instead.

The LLB (Hons) Law with Criminology offers a range of practical, vocational electives, such as Client Care Skills in the second year, and the Law Clinic in the third year. Students can also undertake placement modules (over a year, a semester, or over the summer vacation), thus broadening their CVs and enhancing their prospects of securing graduate positions in the industry of their choice. The skills and experience learnt in these modules will support graduate careers in legal, and also non legal, environments.

Course Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

Teaching and Learning Activities

Summary

The LLB (Hons) Law with Criminology aims to create a flexible and stimulating learning experience to study two complimentary disciplines of Law and Criminology. Students will study fundamental core topics in law and criminology. Around these core subjects at level 5 and 6 students will be able to choose their palette of modules and tailor their degree to their career aspirations. This, with the culture of high expectation and confidence in our student cohorts, and the Law School's enrichment programme, gives students the opportunity to develop and work towards their academic and career goals.

At Level 4, the emphasis is upon transition and engagement, enabling all students to understand, and meet the challenges of learning within a University as self-directed learners and supporting their success at the next levels of their course. The content at this level is pure law as foundation to then build on with criminology.

At Level 5, the focus is upon consolidation and deeper contextualisation. At this intermediate stage, students will become more immersed in their legal studies, and able to reflect critically both upon its nature and place within their future professional and/or academic lives. Students will be introduced to and learn to adapt to studying two disciplines and contrasting perspectives.

The emphasis at Level 6 is upon strengthening and developing independence and the further growth of students as critical thinkers, increasingly knowledgeable and reflective, both about their own academic development and about the research environment of their subject. At this level students will fully benefit from the blend of perspectives from studying two disciplines.

Learning and teaching activities include recorded lectures, large group sessions, and seminars. Learning tasks and assessments are authentic as they are heavily based around real life problem situations and require students to give legal advice. Many activities are designed to challenge students, requiring them to adapt to different situations, employ different skills and perform similar tasks to those they might be required to do in the workplace. Students are encouraged to reflect on tasks and be more mindful of what they are doing and why, and of how the skills they are learning might be used differently in different situations.
