Professional Accreditation or Recognition Associated with the Course

Professional Body

Joint Audio Media Education Support (JAMES)

Accreditation/ Recognition Summary

The MA Sound Design course, which shares several modules with the MA Music Production course, is accredited by JAMES (Joint Audio Media Education Support) who themselves are backed by the Association of Professional Recording Services and UK Screen Association. JAMES accreditation of MA Sound Design feeds into the curriculum of this course and helps to ensure that it is up to date and relevant for the industry and equips graduates with a strong and appropriate range of skills. Leeds Beckett is the North East regional centre for JAMES.

Course Overview

Aims

The aims of the programme are to:

1. Develop a systematic understanding of the field of sound design as an area of professional practice at advanced level
2. Apply and critically evaluate a variety of concepts, theories and methods associated with analysis and design of sound for the moving image to an advanced level
3. Demonstrate advanced abilities by using current research methodologies and professional skills and techniques effectively to develop original creative outputs in sound design
4. Engage in planning and implementing professional tasks which demonstrate advanced problem solving and autonomous decision making in complex situations
5. Communicate a range of information and content in an appropriate format which reflects scholarly and professional contexts,
6. Make effective use of reflective strategies for the development and evaluation of self-managed learning and professional practice.

Course Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

1	Demonstrate a systematic understanding of the broad knowledge and skills which underpin and contextualises the professional practice of sound design in a variety of media.
2	Contextualise, synthesise, critically evaluate and create original work which demonstrates a conceptual understanding of the underlying issues involved in the specialist field of sound design.
3	Critically evaluate and select specialist methodologies, techniques and collaborative approaches by implementing good professional practice.
4	Demonstrate the independent learning abilities required for the advancement of knowledge and specialist skills in the field of sound design to a high level.

Teaching and Learning Activities

Summary

In line with the university's education strategy our emphasis at level 7 is upon the transformation of students into sophisticated, independent, critical thinkers, able to apply their knowledge with originality within advanced academic and professional contexts. Level 7 is as much about transition as level 4, and we will support this transition so that all students will become confident in their academic and professional abilities and able to apply their knowledge and skills within complex situations.

The course places peer review and formative assessment at the heart of the delivery through regular seminars, group critique, and individual discussions. The aim is to engage all students in critical debate about their own and their peers work in order to develop a supportive community where the learning that takes place between them is as important as the learning delivered by staff.

The approach of the course is to engage students through challenging and authentic tasks. Students are encouraged to identify areas where their professional practice can be integrated into meeting module assessments and outcomes. In-keeping with a Master's level approach students are expected to undertake much of their learning in the own time and to take an increasingly independent approach to their development. Several of the assignment briefs are open for students to follow their own areas of interest (Research Practice, Negotiated Skills Development, Final Project), and in many cases students will be expected to develop their own specific project ideas within the guidelines of the assignment. This is particularly the case for the final project, in which students are free to develop their own area of study in consultation with their tutor.

Research-informed teaching not only brings benefits through the currency of the curriculum, but it also creates a strong research ethos for the course. The Research Practice module runs alongside the other modules throughout the course and is designed to support students' development of academic writing and research methodologies, supporting the work in other modules, and preparing the ground for work done in the Final Individual Project. As well as assessing students on the learning outcomes of their course and modules, assessments also aim to develop professional skills that will enable them to success in academia, the future workplace and wider society.

This course is delivered in person and all lectures and seminars are live. Some one-to-one or small group tutorials may be conducted online at the discretion of the tutor.

Your Modules

This information is correct for students progressing through the programme within standard timescales. Option modules listed are indicative of a typical year. There may be some variance in the availability of option modules. Students who are required to undertake repeat study may be taught alternate modules which meet the overall course learning outcomes. Details of module delivery will be provided in your timetable.

Part-time students will be supported by the course team to determine an appropriate selection of modules from the level for each year of study.

Assessment Balance and Scheduled Learning and Teaching Activities

The assessment balance and overall workload associated with this course are calculated from core modules and typical option module choices undertaken by students on the course. They have been reviewed and confirmed as representative by the Course Director but applicants should note that the specific option choices students make may influence both assessment and workload balance.

A standard module equates to 200 notional learning hours, which may be comprised of teaching, learning and assessment, any embedded placement activities and independent study. Modules may have more than one component of assessment.

Assessment

On this course students will be assessed predominantly through coursework. There is a major independent study module that can be completed through a project based or dissertation-based approach to the equivalent of 10-12,000 words.

Workload

Overall Workload
Teaching, Learning and Assessment	160 hours
Independent Study	1,640 hours
Placement	N/A

Learning Support

If you have a question or a problem relating to your course, your Course Administrator is there to help you.
