Course Overview

Aims

The MSc Quantity Surveying Commercial Management is aimed at people who are already employed in the Built Environment and or Quantity Surveying. Students might be people who are moving into a Quantity Surveying role from a related area; for example a construction or maintenance manager, whose role now embraces wider aspects of Quantity Surveying. Students might be established Quantity Surveyors, who for personal or professional development wish to acquire a formal academic qualification.

The course is delivered via web based distance learning. This offers opportunities to people who otherwise would not be able to undertake formal face to face education for reasons of employment, or personal circumstances. For example, students may be required to work elsewhere for periods. They can continue their studies anywhere in the world.

Course Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

1	To prepare graduates for life-long learning and career progression, To apply and process the knowledge, skills and behaviours needed to meet the academic requirements to become a Chartered member of the RICS.
2	To synthesise current technical and managerial knowledge in Quantity Surveying practice so as to be able to operate as a Quantity Surveyor.
3	To critically evaluate complex issues, in terms of Quantity Surveying, from a variety of different perspectives.
4	To undertake an in-depth evaluative study in the Quantity Surveying domain.
5	To develop sound judgement and comprehensive understanding and initiative, together with a flexible approach to dealing with complex issues in Quantity Surveying.
6	To understand the nature of professionalism and evaluate critically the nature of ethical behaviour in a diverse range of situations.

Teaching and Learning Activities

Summary

This course is delivered via web-based content using a range of teaching and learning methodologies for distance learning. The University's Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) My Beckett is provided by Blackboard 9 and is used as the means of communicating with students for the delivery of online learning. The educational style is "Content with Support" and there are two main methodologies, flipped content and wrapped content. Alternative methodologies of problem-based learning and work-based learning are not currently proposed. Students are directed to online learning resources, including recorded lectures and activities for formative assessment, textbooks and journals (increasingly many recommended texts are provided in digital online format) and external websites. Modules based on flipped content will involve guiding the student through content and supporting learning activities and feedback mechanisms. Modules based on wrapped content will be student-led with a study guide directing students to content similar to that provided in flipped content modules (as described above) but with more reliance placed on Open Educational Resources (OER). The tutor provides directed study guides “wrapped around” these learning resources. Students are supplied with links and references to this external material and are expected to follow up these links on their own; much as students in a traditional University course are supplied with reading lists and are expected to undertake reading on their own. At times, students may be expected to source their own material, particularly where students are expected to identify relevant law and practice in their own country.

- web based material
- project work
- directed reading
- case studies
- problem solving exercises; reflective learning techniques
- computer-assisted learning

This course will feature a mix of blended learning, both online and in-person. Lectures and seminars will be delivered live with some recorded.

Your Modules

This information is correct for students progressing through the programme within standard timescales. Option modules listed are indicative of a typical year. There may be some variance in the availability of option modules. Students who are required to undertake repeat study may be taught alternate modules which meet the overall course learning outcomes. Details of module delivery will be provided in your timetable.

Assessment Balance and Scheduled Learning and Teaching Activities

The assessment balance and overall workload associated with this course are calculated from core modules and typical option module choices undertaken by students on the course. They have been reviewed and confirmed as representative by the Course Director but applicants should note that the specific option choices students make may influence both assessment and workload balance.

A standard module equates to 200 notional learning hours, which may be comprised of teaching, learning and assessment, any embedded placement activities and independent study. Modules may have more than one component of assessment.

Assessment

On this course students will be assessed by a range of methods including online presentations, reflective practice assignments, reports and coursework. Students are supported during the preparation of the assessments and have access to module tutors and personal tutors with Surveying knowledge. The module learning material is also set up and delivered to support the assessment process for the student, many lectures and tutorials are recorded so that the student can access these to support their research for both their assessed and non- assessed work.

Workload

Overall Workload
Teaching, Learning and Assessment	266 hours
Independent Study	1514 hours
